KINGDOM OF MOROCCO

His Majesty King Mohammed VI and President Barack Obama agreed during the Royal Visit to Washington in November 2013 to organize the 5th edition of the Global Entrepreneurship Summit in the Kingdom of Morocco. The selection of Morocco to host the Summit, organized for the first time in an Arab-African country, reflects the active role that the Kingdom of Morocco plays in the overall economic development of the African continent, and its leadership in supporting entrepreneurship and integration of youth and women in the economy.

BEING AN ENTREPRENEUR DOESN'T (ALWAYS) MEAN BEING YOUNG

The average entrepreneur is 40 when they launch their startup.¹

THINK GLOBAL, GO GLOBAL

Today's young entrepreneurs are "born global." 70 percent of entrepreneurs who launched their firms in the past 12 months are already contemplating international expansion.²

BARRIERS TO INNOVATION

The lack of own funds and the high perceived costs of innovating are the two factors most cited as hampering innovation across all countries³

INNOVATION CREATES JOBS

The more innovative young entrepreneurs are, the more confident they are in creating jobs. 91% percent who say innovation is critical or important to them also plan to create jobs in 2014 - compared with 61% of those who don't find innovation critical or important to their business.⁴
